a message from the CBCF Chair

Dear Friends,

Welcome to Washington, DC and our 36th Annual Legislative Conference (ALC).

Our theme this year, Changing Course, Confronting Crises, Continuing the Legacy, aptly characterizes the challenges ahead of us and the adjustments we must make in our rapidly changing nation. We have scheduled events, braintrusts and issue forums that reflect the diverse interests and needs of our community. You will find many educational opportunities, as well as the chance to meet and share ideas with thousands of business, professional, government and community leaders from across the country.

I also encourage you to take advantage of our Exhibit Hall and visit with our many sponsors and vendors. Like you, they help to make the ALC the CBCF's signature fundraising event of the year, supporting our fellowship and internship programs and the CBC Spouses scholarship programs that help develop new generations of leaders.

So, plan on actively participating in as many events as you can. We want your experience to be a good one. I hope that when you leave Washington, you will be equipped with new ideas and information and be inspired with a newfound sense of purpose and commitment, knowing that each of us can make a difference in the world.

Thank you for joining us at the 2006 ALC and most especially, I thank you for your continued support of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation.

Sincerely,

Kendrick B. Meek

a message from the CBC Chair

Dear Friends,

The members of the Congressional Black Caucus (CBC) welcome you to the 36th Annual Legislative Conference. This year's theme, Changing Course, Confronting Crises, Continuing the Legacy, inspires a fresh approach to assessing the progress African Americans have made in closing disparities and achieving equality in all areas of life. Over the next several days, we will delve into these critical issues in numerous sessions and will collaborate on ways to achieve our mutual objectives.

The Annual Legislative Conference's objective (and the CBC's role) is to provide information about important issues, discuss viable reform proposals and replace impractical or ineffective policies with policies that have productive results for our communities. We trust that your attendance at the Annual Legislative Conference reflects a willingness on your part to help the CBC play our role more effectively.

We hope that you will share the insights and ideas you gain at this Conference with others in your workplaces, churches and communities. By doing so, you become a critical link between the CBC and your local communities and help to mobilize the grassroots efforts that complement our work in Congress.

Thank you for attending this year's Annual Legislative Conference and for the critical work you do to keep us moving forward.

Sincerely,

Melvin L. Watt
Member of Congress

a message from the ALC Co-Chairs

Greetings,

Welcome to the District of Columbia! We would like to thank you for joining us for the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's 36th Annual Legislative Conference.

Our theme, Changing Course, Confronting Crises, Continuing the Legacy, reflects our efforts to redirect our energies, resolve our issues, and renew our commitment to keep moving Black America forward. This is a defining moment. The way we guarantee our legacy continues is to motivate and guide the next generation of leaders. In recognition of the tremendous legacy they have inherited, this year we have invited young leaders age 21 to 40 to participate in our forums and programs.

We will explore several issues that directly impact our ability to achieve success in America and throughout the world. Our discussions about topics such as education, economics, energy, health care and foreign policy are designed to help us elevate our families and community to a position of power and prosperity. As you participate in these events and sessions, we hope you will be moved and inspired to exchange information and ideas, embrace new partnerships and alliances, and engage and encourage our young people.

We are honored to serve as Co-Chairs of the 36th Annual Legislative Conference. We appreciate your attendance and are grateful for your support of the Congressional Black Caucus and the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation. We look forward to working with you as we chart a new course for our future.

a message from the President and CEO

Greetings:

Welcome to the 2006 Annual Legislative Conference (ALC)! Each September, community leaders and citizens converge on the Washington Convention Center to exchange ideas and brainstorm solutions at over 70 stimulating panel discussions.

The ALC Co-Chairs, Reps. Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick and Barbara Lee selected the theme, Changing Course, Confronting Crises, and Continuing the Legacy, for this year's event. As we think about novel approaches to addressing 21st Century challenges, it is important that we involve our next generation of leaders in such discussions. We have, therefore, made an extra effort to make the Conference appealing to our Emerging Leaders. We took special care to create an upbeat schedule for students and young professionals that will once again include the popular Instant Apprentice Luncheon and Emerging Leaders Empowerment Series.

There are a few other important ALC highlights I would like to bring to your attention. On Wednesday, our new Virtual Library, Avoice, will be unveiled at the Opening Press Conference. Funded by Dell, this one-of-a-kind online repository houses rare legislative documents, photos and historic information about Congressional Black Caucus members. Economic and health issues will be the focal point of the Future Focus sessions, and the evening schedule will offer the Welcome Ceremony, the CBC Spouses Celebration of Leadership and the CBC Spouses Fashion Show. Over the ensuing three days, you will be treated to the National Town Hall Meeting, Prayer Breakfast and Annual Awards Dinner.

I wish to thank the ALC Co-Chairs, CBCF Chairman, Rep. Kendrick Meek, the Congressional Black Caucus and the CBC Spouses for presenting such a diverse range of informative sessions and events. We are also indebted to our moderators, panelists and distinguished keynote speakers. I offer a special thank you to the dedicated staff of the CBCF who mainly labor in the background with little recognition and to the ALC volunteers, including CBC members' staff, for working with the CBCF staff to make this an enjoyable and educational conference. Finally, I want to thank our corporate sponsors and exhibitors, without whom we would not be able to offer the broad array of forums and social activities. I urge you to visit our vendors in the Exhibit Hall to let them know you value their participation.

Enjoy the Conference and continue to support the ALC and other programs of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation.

Sincerely,

Elsie Scott, Ph.D.

a message from the CBC Spouses Chair

Dear Friends,

On behalf of the CBC Spouses, I want to welcome you to the 36th Annual Legislative Conference. I am very excited about the events we have in store for ALC participants and I hope you will take time to learn more about the important work the CBC Spouses are doing through our Educational Scholarship Fund.

In 1988, the CBC Spouses established a scholarship fund to provide financial assistance to needy college and university students across the country. To date, the CBC Spouses Education Scholarship Program has awarded over $8 million in scholarships.

Unfortunately, with skyrocketing college costs and a declining federal commitment toward financial aid, more and more students are being left with fewer educational opportunities, harming the potential of our next generation of leaders. This is what makes the CBC Spouses Educational Scholarship Program so critical to our communities.

One of our annual signature events, the Golf & Tennis Classic held June 25-26, 2006, was again a tremendous success. All proceeds from CBC Spouses events go to our scholarship programs and I want to thank our donors for their consistent and generous support of our events.

On behalf of my colleagues, I want to extend my deepest gratitude to our corporate partners, the CBC Members, our staff and volunteers, the CBCF Board of Directors, the CBCF Corporate Advisory Council, and to all of you for making this year such a success.

Thank you again for your support of the CBCF and the CBC Spouses. Again, welcome to Washington, DC.

Sincerely,

CPAR FUTURE FOCUS SERIES

presented by the CBCF

Center for Policy Analysis and Research

Wednesday, September 6, 2006

8:00 AM - 5:00 PM

This year's Annual Legislative Conference begins with a full day of high-powered symposiums focused on improving the economic conditions of black America. The Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's research arm, the Center for Policy Analysis and Research (CPAR), has organized a very dynamic day of sessions focused on expanding the financial capacity of black businesses, increasing the participation and influence that residents and black businesses have over the development of their communities, and a Poverty, Race and Policy roundtable that will showcase the work conducted by policy experts on advancing a policy agenda dedicated to the needs of working families.

9:00 AM - 10:30 AM

Doing It For Ourselves: Creating Financially Viable Black Businesses (Forum)

Room 207-A

Moderator: Kelvin Boston, Moneywise with Kelvin Boston

Panelists: Robert Wallace; Jewell Daniels

Synopsis: The state of black entrepreneurship has improved tremendously. According to the Survey of Business Owners, between 1997 and 2002 the number of black-owned businesses in the United States rose 45 percent, heightening the total number of firms to 1.2 million. Collectively, the revenue stream from these firms equals $88.8 billion annually, an economy greater than many small countries. Despite these accomplishments, black businesses still languish behind businesses owned by whites and some immigrants. Given the state of black businesses, it is important that owners fortify and expand their capacity to take on larger contracts and reinvest in meaningful ways. This Future Focus forum will raise awareness about the outstanding challenges black businesses face regarding financial viability and capacity building, and will provide context as to exactly where the state of black entrepreneurship rests and what that means to the economic stability of black communities as a whole.

10:30 AM - 12:30 PM

One Block At A Time: The Importance of African Americans Reinvesting in Their Communities

Room 202-A

Moderator: George Fraser, FraserNet

Panelists: Joe Brook, PolicyLink; Lance Freeman, There Goes the 'Hood: Views of Gentrification from the Ground Up; Ephren Taylor, Amoro Corporation; Vaughn Irons, Freddie Mac

Synopsis: Investment in black communities by blacks will ignite redevelopment and stimulate economic growth and prosperity that is sustainable without losing the fabric of the community. Escalating housing costs have fueled America's renewed interest in some of the most economically deprived cities in the nation, the likes of which some urban areas have not seen since World War II. Although these highly concentrated minority neighborhoods are in dire need of the economic resources that are poured into gentrifying communities, residents are taken advantage of because they are not fully engaged in the process to benefit significantly. Using community investment resources is key as individuals focus on holding on to and improving property to better serve the needs of traditionally black urban communities. This panel will raise awareness about these resources, provide a platform for those that have engaged in the process to tell their stories and generate a tangible blueprint for reinvestment in black communities.

2:00 PM - 5:00 PM

Poverty, Race and Policy: Advancing the Economic Conditions of Working Families

Room 202-A

Moderator: Ed Gordon, Ed Gordon & Friends

Panelists: Dr. Nikol Alexander-Floyd, Virginia Tech; Dr. Susan Gooden, Virginia Commonwealth University; Dr. Cheryl Miller, University of Maryland; Melvin Oliver; Dr. Myron Orfield, University of Minnesota Law School; Dr. John A. Powell, Ohio State University; Dr. Michael Stoll, UCLA; Dr. Ronald Walters, University of Maryland; Dr. Malik Watkins, Savannah State University

Synopsis: According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, from 2002 to 2003 there were 1.3 million more people who crossed into poverty. A total of 35.9 million people were in poverty in 2003 equaling over 12 percent of the population. In 2003, 7.4 million people were classified as the "working poor," overlapping 4.2 million families. These families bring home wages that are not adequate to buy decent housing, build nest eggs for future plans or save money for their children's education. Black leaders must discuss these issues and develop mechanisms to expand opportunity to this group more directly. The purpose of this panel is to release and further explore important policy prescriptions that surfaced during extensive debates about the condition of the working poor at the CBCF policy roundtable held last year.

Welcome Ceremony

Wednesday, September 6, 2006

6:00 PM

Washington Convention Center Ballroom A

Keynote Address by Reverend Al

Sharpton

Reverend Al Sharpton, one of America's most-renowned civil rights leaders, is the President of the National Action Network (NAN). Whether it was his noteworthy run for President of the United States in 2004 or his use of passive resistance and non-violent civil disobedience, Rev. Sharpton has had an irrefutable impact on national politics because of his strong commitment to equality and progressive politics. He has been applauded by both supporters and non-supporters for challenging the American political establishment to be inclusive of all people regardless of race, gender, class or beliefs.

Rev. Sharpton preached his first sermon at the early age of four and later became a licensed minister at the age of nine. He likewise started his civil rights career very young. At age 13, he was appointed, by Reverends Jesse Jackson and William Jones, the youth director of New York's SCLC Operation Breadbasket (founded by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.). At age 16, Sharpton founded the National Youth Movement, Inc. and organized young people around the country, promoting voter registration, cultural awareness and job training programs.

Ever since his surrogate father, the Godfather of Soul, James Brown, told him, "you can't set your sights on nothing little...you got to go for the whole hog," Rev. Sharpton has been doing just that. In 1991, Sharpton founded the National Action Network, a broad-based, progressive civil rights organization that has over forty chapters and affiliates across the United States. From 1994 to 1998, Rev. Sharpton served as Director of the Ministers Division for the National Rainbow Push Coalition under Rev. Jesse Jackson while still serving as the head of NAN.

Rev. Sharpton's platforms against racial profiling and police brutality have reached an international audience, and his work on human rights issues has taken him to Sudan, Israel, Europe and further, where he has formed alliances with international peace activists across the world.

Rev. Sharpton was educated in public schools in New York and attended Brooklyn College. He was later presented with an honorary degree from A.P. Clay Bible College. Rev. Sharpton says his religious convictions are the basis for his life. He is a member of Bethany Baptist Church in his native Brooklyn neighborhood and still preaches throughout the United States and abroad averaging eighty formal sermons a year. In addition to continuing to run NAN, Rev. Sharpton hosts a talk show on Syndication One that broadcasts in thirty markets, five days a week, and he hosts "Sharp Talk" on TV One — a national cable show based in a barber shop setting.

Rev. Al and Kathy Jordan Sharpton have two daughters, Dominique and Ashley.

NATIONAL TOWN HALL MEETING

Thursday, September 7, 2006

9:30 AM – 11:45 AM

Washington Convention Center, Ballroom A

Presented each year during the Annual Legislative Conference, the National Town Hall Meeting convenes a diverse panel of prominent voices to explore timely and relevant issues. ALC Co-Chairs, Reps. Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick and Barbara Lee are convening this year's panel to discuss the theme, Confronting Crises: Achieving Energy Independence.

"America is addicted to oil," was the tagline of this year's State of the Union Address delivered by President Bush on January 31, 2006. Americans continue to hear rhetoric with no real solutions to lower gas and home heating fuel prices, nor strategies to wean the American economy off oil. For this reason, the town hall discussion will examine the current energy challenges and opportunities facing America. Panelists will discuss challenges facing American families and communities with regard to home heating needs, gasoline prices, and alternative energy strategies that must be implemented to reach the goal of energy independence. Attendees will also hear about the great environmental and entrepreneurial opportunities our energy transition will create for Americans. We anticipate a lively discussion and active audience participation.

History of the CBC

Excerpted from former Congressman William L. Clay's best-selling book, Just Permanent Interests: Black Americans in Congress 1870-1991

The watershed of increased black representation grew out of the civil rights movement and the efforts of black activists...White America found its status of privilege and advantage crumbling under the weight of massive and disruptive protests on one hand, and legislated away by enactment of new laws that abolished preferential treatment on the other. Frederick Douglass had forewarned the nation of this possibility in 1886 when he said at the twenty-fourth anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation, "Where justice is denied, where poverty is enforced, where ignorance prevails and where one class is made to feel that society is an organized conspiracy to oppress, rob and degrade them, neither persons nor property will be safe..."

History was made in mainstream politics on January 2, 1969, when the House Speaker asked Shirley Chisholm of New York, Louis Stokes of Ohio and Bill Clay of Missouri to swear the oath of office and join already sitting black Congressmen: William Dawson of Chicago, Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. of New York, Charles Diggs of Detroit, Robert Nix of Philadelphia, Augustus Hawkins of Los Angeles and John Conyers, Jr. of Detroit... We met periodically as a loose-knit group called the Democratic Select Committee, formed under the leadership of Charles Diggs. Our numbers increased with the swearing-in of George Collins of Illinois, Ronald Dellums of California, Ralph Metcalfe of Illinois, Parren Mitchell of Maryland, Charles Rangel of New York who replaced Adam Clayton Powell as Metcalfe replaced Dawson, and Walter E. Fauntroy, in the newly created position of non-voting delegate for the District of Columbia...With the increased number of black House members, Diggs called a meeting to consider authorizing formal election of officers, naming an executive committee, and establishing subcommittees, also under consideration was an appropriate name for the group. Some wanted an all-inclusive nomenclature so Chicano, Puerto Rican, and Jewish members could join... The February 2, 1971 minutes reflect that it was unanimously agreed that the Caucus be composed of only black members and that the word 'black' remain in the name. Mr. Rangel reiterated his suggestion for the name Congressional Black Caucus, and it was agreed.

The road of the black race's struggle for justice and equality is littered with disheartened groups and individuals coining slogans and proclaiming mandates for the birth of new movements. This time, it was different. Blacks in legislative bodies, including those in the United States Congress, were rising "phoenix-like." The thirteen black members of Congress were uniquely situated and sharply primed to lead an all-out assault on the institution of racism.

HISTORY

The Congressional Black Caucus Spouses (CBCS) program has a storied history, steeped in the traditions of excellence in educational scholarship and service to the community. Established in 1976 as a part of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, Inc. (CBCF), the Spouses' organization is a 501(c)3, nonprofit, nonpartisan entity that supports the mission of informing the public on critical issues that impact their daily lives, and preparing future generations of African Americans for positions of leadership. For decades, the organization's presence has been felt in the halls and classrooms of institutions of higher learning all over America. In keeping with the mission of providing support for the next generation of leaders, the CBC Spouses have created a number of successful scholarship programs in the Districts of Members of the Congressional Black Caucus. Since the inception of these programs, the CBC Spouses have awarded more than $8 million in scholarships to deserving students seeking baccalaureate and professional degrees.

Education Scholarship Fund

This program was established in 1988 in response to federal cuts in the Education budget. For decades, the CBC Spouses have demonstrated a steadfast commitment to providing critical financial resources that open doors, allowing young people to access the unlimited cache of educational opportunities available in America. The Education Scholarship Fund is a national program that is operated through the District Offices of the Members of the Congressional Black Caucus. The Members work through local scholarship committees to award money to academically talented and highly motivated students.

The CBC Spouses Cheerios Brand Health Initiative Scholarship

The focus on health was established through this scholarship program in 1998, as the CBC Spouses partnered with the naming sponsor to create an increase in the number of African American students going into the medical profession and any health related field. General Mills has invested more than $1.5 million to this important initiative. This program seeks to increase minority leadership in the fields of medicine, engineering, technology, nutrition and other health-related professions.

The CBC Spouses Cheerios Brand Health Initiative Scholarship has served hundreds of students over the years, and boasts of leaders in medical research, and in the treatment of hypertension, obesity, diabetes, AIDS, and cancer.

The CBC Spouses Performing Arts Scholarship Program

Established in 2000, the CBC Spouses Performing Arts Scholarship program is a partnership between the CBC Spouses and Heineken USA. This highly competitive scholarship was developed in honor of the late Curtis Mayfield and provides financial assistance to students who want to pursue performing arts careers. Each year, the CBC Spouses award ten scholarships to gifted and talented students who want to pursue careers in music, drama and other arts vocations.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The CBC Spouses also host additional special events that provide scholarship funds for each of the Member Districts represented in the Congressional Black Caucus. The annual events that provide funding for these scholarships include:

The Mervyn L. Jones Memorial Golf and Tennis Classic

The Mervyn L. Jones Memorial Golf and Tennis Classic is the primary educational fundraiser for the Congressional Black Caucus Spouses. Each year, the golf and tennis classic supports the Spouses scholarship efforts and features a silent auction, a gala and competitive golfing.

The CBC Spouses Celebration of Leadership for the Visual and Performing Arts

This special event is normally held during the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's Annual Legislative Conference and is a signature event in the Spouses program portfolio. It recognizes the significant contributions of individuals in the Visual and Performing Arts, as well as corporate leaders, former CBC Spouses, and those citizens who have demonstrated leadership in the area of lifting up and supporting young people and improving the general quality of life for all people.

CBC Spouses Annual Essay Contest and Issue Forum

Conducted each year during the CBCF Annual Legislative Conference, this event focuses on an issue that bears a heavy impact on the lives of African Americans. Spouses choose subjects for their Issue Forum, such as Civil Rights, the American Criminal Justice System, the detection and treatment of HIV/AIDS, and others that are of great interest to their constituency. This forum provides an opportunity for the essay contest winners to present their views and ideas to Congressional Members, business leaders, and leading policymakers.

The CBC Spouses Annual Community Breakfast and Health Fair

Each year during the CBCF Annual Legislative Conference, the CBC Spouses host hundreds of individuals during a breakfast for homeless people who reside in the immediate and surrounding communities. The Spouses organization also works with major retailers to provide clothing and outerwear to the breakfast participants. The meals are served by Members of Congress and their Spouses, providing them an opportunity to meet these constituents and speak with them on a personal level.

The CBC Spouses Annual Fashion Show

The glamour and class of this event are legendary in the region, making this one of the most sought-after tickets during the Annual Legislative Conference. This signature Fashion Extravaganza raises tens of thousands of dollars for scholarships annually.

RESEARCH AND PROGRAMS

CBCF's Office of Research and Programs creates, identifies, analyzes, and disseminates policy-oriented information and research. The Office also provides educational opportunities for future leaders through fellowship and internship programs. The primary focus areas are Education, Public Health, and Economic Development.

Center for Policy Analysis and Research (CPAR) facilitates evidence-based policy making and positively influences public discourse on policy issues important to African Americans and other underserved communities. Members of the CPAR staff conduct and disseminate policy-relevant research; facilitate substantive communication between academics and policymakers; and disseminate vital information to African American elected officials, academics, media and the public.

PROGRAMS AND INITIATIVES

- The Congressional Fellows Program is CBCF's premier leadership development program for individuals who have completed graduate/professional degrees, faculty members, elected officials, and seasoned public policy professionals. Fellows gain invaluable experience as they assist in the development of legislative and public policy initiatives while working in the offices of the Congressional Black Caucus Members. To maximize the fellowship experience, Fellows participate in substantive educational and leadership development activities.
- The CBCF Louis Stokes Urban Health Policy Fellows Program is an educational, leadership development program designed for health policy professionals who through original research, advanced legislative training, and health policy analysis will significantly aid efforts to eliminate health disparities in the United States and abroad.
- The CBCF Congressional Internship Program offers opportunities for college undergraduates from across the nation to learn about the legislative process, leadership, and team development. Interns are placed in Congressional Black Caucus offices during either the summer, fall, or spring terms.
- The CBCF Eleanor Holmes Norton Capitol High School Leaders Program brings what students learn in school to life. Capitol Hill serves as an extension of the classroom while students experience the inner-workings of Congress and participate in an interactive educational curriculum. Students also learn about applying to college, financial planning and professional development.
- The Emerging Leaders Series engages a global audience of college students and young professionals through a series of seminars, panel discussions, town meetings, and webcasts. Community activists, policy shapers, elected officials, political correspondents, experts, and web participants share their views on current and impending legislation and discuss the efforts that must be marshaled in order to ensure that public policy considers and benefits the African American family.
- The Leadership Network is comprised of CBCF Alumni. Through the Leadership Network, CBCF Alumni remain connected to CBCF as they actively participate in educational and leadership development workshops, mentoring activities, career networking opportunities, and the CBCF Emerging Leaders Series.
- The CBCF Anti-Smoking Education Initiative (ASEI) is based on student activism, peer education and environmental strategies that are conducted at ten Historically Black Colleges. The purpose is to educate young African American adults about tobacco prevention and smoking cessation; facilitate involvement of young African American adults in tobacco control policy advocacy; and provide a framework for developing and implementing tobacco control and smoking cessation programs at Historically Black Colleges and Universities.
- The Student Homeownership Opportunity Program (SHOP) was designed to assist young people with becoming homeowners at an early age, while avoiding the pitfalls of poor credit habits and excessive debt. The SHOP Program shifted its emphasis in 2006 to heavily focus on moving away from debt and towards general financial preparation, in homeownership and beyond. The program educates young people about the importance of managing money smartly and building wealth through homeownership through workshops held at Historically Black Colleges and Universities.
- With Ownership, Wealth (WOW) is a housing initiative designed to increase the number of African American homeowners. Local WOW programs direct consumers to sources of tangible assistance, education, credit counseling, down payment and resources, and stay with them as they move toward their goal of becoming homeowners.
- The Black Health Empowerment Project (BHEP) is a health promotion initiative designed to educate African Americans about the relationship between obesity and the chronic health conditions that disproportionately plague communities of color. The main component of the BHEP is a one-day interactive, educational experience hosted by a Congressional Black Caucus member in his or her district.
- The Virtual Library Project: CBCF, Dell, the University of Texas-Austin and Howard University have entered into a relationship to implement the CBCF Virtual Library Project. The Virtual Library will be used to capture and preserve the history and contributions of Congressional Black Caucus members.
- The Supplier Business Initiative is a program designed to assist minority small businesses by evaluating the various Small Business Administration regulations, specifically the Small Disadvantaged Business (SDB) Program and the 8(a) Business Development Program. The overall goal of the Initiative is to increase the number of qualified minority businesses in these SBA certification programs. The CBCF is conducting an analysis of the SDB certification process to identify barriers to success of SDBs.

CBCF Congressional Internship Program

Established in 1986, the CBCF Congressional Internship Program answered the call to help diversify our democracy by increasing the pool of talented public servants. Therefore, the mission of the program is to improve our quality of life by training the next generation of leaders to make sound public policies. CBCF brings motivated college undergraduates from across the country to the District of Columbia to take an inside look into the United States Congress. The intensive 9-week program places students in congressional offices where they work under the guidance of Congressional Black Caucus Members and their professional staffs. The program utilizes the resources of the nation's capital to provide an interactive educational experience. Students leave the program better informed decision makers prepared to be influential leaders who shape our world.

2006 CBCF ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON CAPITOL HIGH SCHOOL LEADERS PROGRAM

The Eleanor Holmes Norton Capitol High School Leaders Program is a six-month program divided into three distinct segments. For the first three months of the program, interns meet once a week after school to participate in skill building workshops that prepare them for working on Capitol Hill and for applying to college. These workshops continue throughout the program. During the next segment, interns work part-time in the offices of members of the Congressional Black Caucus. There, they become acclimated to the office environment in preparation for their full time placement once school ends. Finally, for the remainder of the program during the summer months, interns work full-time in Congressional offices. Along with their full-time office placements, the Eleanor Holmes Norton Capitol High School Leaders attend a series of lectures and participate in several college visits.
